

ABSTRACT

Systems and techniques relating to software for enterprise change, in particular to restructuring processes and tools for one or more organizations. In one general
5 implementation, the technique includes the generation of a single logical information system across one or more information systems of at least two enterprises, wherein the enterprises are combined, and the single logical information system is used to execute restructuring activities. The 10 logical information system facilitates restructuring-related issue management.

20765853.doc